License to Publish and Experimental Procedures Statement
The Journal of Neuroscience

The Society for Neuroscience ("SfN or the Publisher") will be pleased to publish your article ("the Work") titled:

_____in The Journal of Neuroscience. Publication may occur in print, electronically, or in any other media format, when and if the Work is accepted for publication.

The Author(s) hereby grant the Publisher a License to publish the work in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

1. Ownership of the copyright shall remain with the Authors, subject to the rights granted to SfN in paragraph 2. The Authors shall retain the non-exclusive right to any use of the Work so long as the Authors provide attribution to the place of original publication and, for the first six months after publication, refrain from making the work publicly available. The retained right specifically includes the right to post a copy of the Work, six months after original publication, in an institutional repository and on the author's own web page as long as the appropriate credit is provided to the Work having been published in The Journal of Neuroscience.

(a) The Authors grant The Society of Neuroscience a world- wide license for the full length of copyright protection as provided by applicable law: to publish, reproduce, distribute, display and store the Work in all forms whether now known or hereafter devised, and to authorize third parties to do the same;

(b) to translate the Work into other languages, create adaptations, summaries or extracts or other derivative works based on the Work and exercise all of the rights set forth in (a) and to license others to do any or all of the above. For the first six months after publication SfN's license will be exclusive. Beginning six months after publication the Work will be made freely available to the public on SfN's website to copy, distribute, or display under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) license (https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/). The user may not create, compile, publish, host, enable or otherwise make available a mirror site of The Journal of Neuroscience site

2. The Work shall include the manuscript and all sub-parts therein, the figures, tables, multimedia, and cover art, if submitted.

3. If the Work involves research on live vertebrate animals or on human subjects, the author affirms that the research conforms to the applicable policies and principles for experimental procedures (see the Policy on the Use of Animals in Neuroscience Research and the Policy of Human Subjects, found at: http://www.sfn.org/advocacy/policy-positions/policies-on-the-use-of-animals-and-humans-in-research

4. All contributing authors acknowledge and confirm they have read and agreed to abide by the guidelines on Responsible Conduct Regarding Scientific Communication (which can be found at:

specifically, but not limited to terms relating to authorship, conflict of interest, and making available to qualified scientists for bona fide research purposes all materials that were used in the reported research and are not otherwise readily available.

5. The Authors further warrant that they will protect, indemnify and hold harmless the Publisher from any and all claims, actions, suits, damages and liabilities, arising from a breach of this Agreement or any warranties, obligations or representations set forth herein, and that the Author knowingly or negligently commits.

6. By signing this agreement, the Authors warrant that they have the full power to enter into this agreement. The contributing Authors agree and understand that they are responsible for obtaining permissions required for the use of any copyrighted material in the Work.

7. The Parties consent and agree that the laws of the District of Columbia will govern this Agreement and that all legal proceedings related to the subject matter herein shall be brought and maintained in the courts of the District of Columbia.

This agreement must be signed by all authors, or the corresponding author on behalf of all authors, or in the case of a work made for hire, by an authorized agent of the employer. The Society recognizes that works prepared under United States Government contract or by employees of a foreign government are subject to the government's prior non-exclusive, royalty-free license to publish, translate, reproduce, use or dispose of the published form of their work, or allow others to do so for non-commercial government purposes.

If a manuscript is NOT accepted for publication, the sections of this agreement regarding licensing are null and void.

Authorship

If the article was prepared jointly with other author(s), the signing author warrants that he or she has informed the co-author(s) of the terms of this license and is signing on their behalf as their agent and represents that he or she is authorized to do so. The signing author agrees to bear the responsibility for designating the co-author(s) and must inform SfN of any changes in authorship. Please confirm that you are signing in behalf of co-authors by checking the box following the signature line.
